

I would oppose a weakening of the Indiana "no call" law which prevents telemarketers/businesses from soliciting those residences or businesses which are listed on the no call directory. Banks have no more right to solict us than any other group. The premise of an established business relationship could apply as well to my neighborhood grocery store, my barber, or my dentist. Those of us on the no call list do not want to be called by businesses. I particulary do not want solicitations from banks.
